Brevities and News Items.

Mrs. LINCOLN has the franking privilege for life.

An old bachelor says that the proper name for marriageable young ladies is "waiting maids."

"I have doctors' bills," as the man said when he caught the family physician kissing his wife.

A Michigan soldier, being tried for stealing a goose, said he found the bird hissing at the American flag and arrested him for treason.

"I am afraid you'll come to want," said an old lady to a young gentleman. "I have come to want already," was the reply; "I want your daughter."

An exchange says that recently a lady, speaking of the gathering of the lawyers to dedicate a new court house, said she supposed they had gone to "view the ground where they must shortly lie."

"Have you seen my black-faced antelope?" inquired Mr. Lewcoope, who has a collection of animals, of his friend. "No, I haven't. Who did your black-faced antelope with?"

A pretty girl says: "If our Maker thought it wrong for Adam to live single, when there was not a woman upon earth, how criminally guilty are old bachelors, with the world full of pretty girls."

A church collection for missions, the pastor said: "My christian brethren, let us bring out our pennies in buttons not to brag, but to show that we are not stingy and they will not be for coins."

An editor says his attention was first drawn to matrimony by the skillful manner in which a pretty girl handled a broom. A brother editor says that the manner in which his wife handles a broom is not very pleasant.

A Tennessee Radical's definition of "loyalty" is, one who, having encouraged the rebellion, is now willing to commit perjury and denounce those who engaged in it.

We have an illustration in the person of Wm. B. Stokes, who openly approved the course of Governor Harris and denounced Lincoln; but who now maintains that all who did the same thing—not in dupli-city, but in good faith—shall be hung. We have an illustration in Secretary Fletcher, now acting Governor, who applied to Jefferson Davis for a commission to raise a rebel regiment, but who now says that those guilty of a like offence, though willing to accept the result and support the Government in future, should be disfranchised, and a war of extermination waged against them.

We have another illustration in Arnell, the Confederate cobbler, who subscribed to equip a company to make war upon the "old flag," but who now seeks to disfranchise the very neighbor boys he aided in putting in the field. This is radical loyalty, with one additional requirement—that is, that a man shall perjure himself in order to hold office; the result of which will be to confer upon the Radicals, in perpetuity, all the offices.—Union and American.

A MAN coming home one night rather late, a little more than "half seas over," feeling somewhat thirsty, procured a glass of water and drank it. With the water he swallowed a small ball of silk that lay in the bottom of the tumbler, the end of the thread catching in his teeth. Feeling something in his mouth, and not knowing what it was, he began to pull at the little ball, unwinding he soon had several yards of thread in his hand, and, as he kept pulling the thread kept coming. Terrified, he shouted at the top of his voice: "Wife! wife!—I say, wife—come here! I'm all unraveling!"

In a loafer and a jug of whisky are sitting side by side, which will be drunk first?

RATES OF POSTAGE.

In consequence of the general ignorance in the South of the rules of postage established by law, many letters of importance are daily lost to those interested by being improperly or insufficiently stamped. The regulations require that all such letters dropped into post offices shall be immediately forwarded to the Dead Letter office, where they are never heard from unless they contain money, or other enclosures of value. We give below some information which may prevent vexation to correspondents.

The rate of postage on letters within the United States is 3 cents for every letter or sealed package of one-half ounce or under. Those over one ounce are 5 cents for every additional ounce.

Postage stamps issued prior to 1860 are worthless, and will not answer for present purposes.

Opinions of Distinguished Business Men.

"Advertise your business. Do not hide your light under a bushel. Whatever your calling or occupation may be, if it needs support from the public, advertise it thoroughly and efficiently in some shape or other, that will arrest public attention. I freely confess that what success I have had in life may fairly be attributed more to the public press than to nearly all the other causes combined. There may possibly be occupations that do not require advertising, but I cannot well conceive what they are.—P. T. BARNUM.

"I have always considered advertising—liberally and long—to be the great medium of success in business, and the prelude to wealth. And I have always made it an invariable rule, too, to advertise in the fullest terms, a long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out; as by keeping my business continually before the public, has secured me many sales that I otherwise would have lost.—STEPHEN GIRARD.

"Whatever success I may have had in business I owe mainly to continuous advertising, and I deem it good policy to advertise long in the same papers. From a close observation I am fully convinced that it is impossible to make much headway in any kind of business, without the facilities which the press alone can give.—JACOB REISCHWEYER.

"My motto through life has been, work and advertise. In business, advertising is the true philosopher's stone, that turns whatever it touches to gold. I have advertised much, both in the weekly as well as the daily papers; nor have I found that those of the largest circulation, of either class, benefited me the most.—JOS. JACOB ARON.

"Advertise! advertise! advertise! This is the life of trade; and standing advertisements, you will find, will prove the most remunerative, at least I have found it so, during my business career thus far; for should you withdraw but a single week from the paper in which you are accustomed to advertise, then to one that would be the time when some would be new customers will look into the paper for your business address, and not finding it, you will lose several profitable sales.—WILLIAM GRAY.

Mock Apple Pie—Take one teaspoonful of bread crumbs, two of water, one and a half of sugar, one teaspoonful of tartaric acid and a little salt and cinnamon or extract of lemon; let it boil five minutes, then pour it boiling into pie-plates lined with paste-cover with same, and bake immediately.

The Empress of Australia has recently introduced a new fashion. It is to have a diamond representing a dew-drop fixed to a real flower. A few evenings ago she had in her hand a bouquet of white camellias, and on each, in the center, was a large diamond.
